Crime/ Violence

*****CRIME AND VIOLENCE*****

Program: "Community Focus-FM"
Host: Guy Lambert
Issues: Crime & Violence
Run Time: 15:44min of a 60 minute show
Aired: 10-2-11
Guest: Becky Lee Founder/President
Topic: Becky's Fund

---

Becky's Fund is a national 501 (c)(3) non-profit organization focused on domestic violence awareness and education which was created by Becky Lee in 2006. Located in Washington D.C. in an office donated by the law firm of Wiltshire and Grannis, Becky's Fund began with a small goal to give support to those small domestic violence organizations working to serve battered women in marginalized and immigrant communities. Week in and week out we've learned that through several innovated programs, approaches and partnerships that message is reaching men and women on college campuses, school children across the region, fans in ballparks, and Washington's leaders at dinner parties and fashionable events. During the interview we learn that domestic violence is no stranger to any race of ethnicity; it knows no economic station, and Becky's Fund has found compelling ways to confront it in all of its forms and in all its hiding places. On October 19th 2011, Becky's fund spearheaded it's annual "Walk for Life" campaign which promotes domestic abuse awareness.

Run Time: 16:23min of a 60 minute show
Aired: 10-9-11
Guest: Philyis Outlaw/ Project Coordinator
Topic: Domestic Violence Abuse/Creative Loving Relationship Organization

---

The Creative Loving Relationship Organization is an extension of WEAVE (Women Empowered Against Violence Everyday.) The ultimate goal is to raise the awareness of survivors in DC's LGBTQ communities about their legal rights, and direct people to resources about maintaining healthy and violence-free relationships. They do this through creative outreach and a Public Service Announcement campaign. They also seek to engage these communities in the campaign itself by leading an interactive art-based project and a series of community-based conversations and outreach events. Lastly they plan to ensure that this campaign is culturally relevant and accessible to LGBTQ Latin@ Communities in DC.

Run Time: 14:11min of a 60 minute show
Aired: 12-11-11
Guest: Kenny Barnes/Radio Host/Activist
Topic: The Root

Kenny Barnes is an amazing man. He is the President of ROOT, Inc., which stands for Reaching Out to Others Together. This group is dedicated to ending violence in our city and creating peaceful and safe communities. ROOT's mission is to ensure that communities, police, faith-based organizations, media facebook status, business and others all need to work together if the violence epidemic is going to be stopped. In a way, this is very similar to Hillary Clinton's "It Takes A Village" theme. His inspiration for ROOT came from a very tragic circumstance. On September 24th, 2001, his son was brutally murdered in Ward 1. He was shot in cold blood by a 17-year old. While Mr. Barnes was devastated, he was driven to find his son's killer, and worked tirelessly with members of the community to bring the perpetrators to justice. He found witnesses, worked with the police, and followed a trail that ultimately led to an arrest and conviction.

Topic: Maryland College Fund

The College Savings Plans of Maryland is the easy, affordable and smart way to save for your child's education at nearly any college in the nation. Starting to save now is the best thing you can do to support their success in 5...10...or 18 years. They offer two distinct and flexible plans that will help you accomplish your goals and help give your child a head start. Also, they're the only 529 plans that offer a Maryland State income deduction for Maryland taxpayers. The College Savings Plans of Maryland is an independent State agency that created two plans to fit your needs. Both plans are administered by the College Savings Plans of Maryland Board, which includes 10 members, half of whom are State officials and the other half of whom are public members appointed by Maryland's Governor.

Topic: AKA Girls Rock

Each year, Xi Zeta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Incorporated hosts a conference to encourage, educate and empower young people in the Washington, D.C. area. This year, their focus is on empowering girls to become the leaders of tomorrow. The 2011 Girls Rock: Emerging Young Leaders Empowerment Conference is an extension of the Sorority's signature program, Emerging Young Leaders, which seeks to impact the lives of 10,000 girls in grades six through eight by providing innovative opportunities that promote leadership development, civic engagement, enhanced academic preparation and character building. Middle school is an incredibly crucial period as young, impressionable girls deal with issues such as becoming a teenager, relationships, hormonal changes, body development and body image. The Conference will consist of workshops, presentations and skill-building exercises that will teach participants to make smart choices with respect to their education, fitness, health, social interactions and relationships with peers and parents. Upon leaving the Conference, participants will be empowered to lead.

Since 1995, the Recreation Wish List Committee (RWLC) has worked to support and create safe places for the District of Columbia's youth to grow and play. By bringing together public and private resources to enhance the city's park and recreation programs and facilities, the RWLC strengthens neighborhoods and enhances young lives. As a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization, the RWLC has engaged in numerous community projects, including resurfacing basketball courts and baseball fields, installing a dance studio and computer labs, and completely refurbishing two public recreation centers. In its most ambitious undertaking, the RWLC partnered with the District of Columbia's Department of Parks and Recreation to create the Southeast Tennis and Learning Center. Today, the RWLC is the driving force behind the Center's year-round educational programming, helping children and teens build social and life skills, strengthen academic abilities, and gain the confidence they need to succeed both on and off the court.

Band of Parents is an organization where parents of children diagnosed with a cancer called neuroblastoma, combined forces to help further the research and drug development desperately needed to save more children. Neuroblastoma is an "orphan" cancer; pharmaceutical companies are not developing new treatments because there is not a large enough patient base to make development profitable. Funding from the government is similarly limited. As parents, they have banded together to increase public awareness about neuroblastoma and to raise funds for the development of novel therapies. They are working in partnership with a talented and dedicated team of doctors at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center (MSKCC), who are fighting to save our children from this deadly disease.

Since 1995, the Recreation Wish List Committee (RWLC) has worked to support and create safe places for the District of Columbia's youth to grow and play. By bringing together public and private resources to enhance the city's park and recreation programs and facilities, the RWLC strengthens neighborhoods and enhances young lives. As a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization, the RWLC has engaged in numerous community projects, including resurfacing basketball courts and baseball fields, installing a dance studio and computer labs, and completely refurbishing two public recreation centers.

In its most ambitious undertaking, the RWLC partnered with the District of Columbia's Department of Parks and Recreation to create the Southeast Tennis and Learning Center. Today, the RWLC is the driving force behind the Center's year-round educational programming, helping children and teens build social and life skills, strengthen academic abilities, and gain the confidence they need to succeed both on and off the court.
